

Table of Contents

1 History

Marnae C. Ergil

| | |
|---|----|
| Introduction | 2 |
| The Creation of the World | 2 |
| The Legendary Origins of Chinese Medicine | 4 |
| Early Archaeological Evidence— the Shang Dynasty | 8 |
| The Zhou Dynasty and Demonological Medicine (1100–475 BCE) | 12 |
| Warring States: Creating Order from Chaos | 14 |
| Daoism as a Response to Chaos and its Influence on Medicine | 24 |
| The Reunification of China and the Emergence of the Traditional Medicine of China | 26 |
| The Maturation of Chinese Medicine | 34 |
| The Systematization of Medicine and Medical Education | 36 |
| Medicine in the Late Imperial Period: 1368–1911 CE | 40 |
| Medicine in Modern China | 42 |
| Translation and Terminology | 48 |
| Table of Dynasties | 50 |

2 Fundamental Theory of Chinese Medicine

Kevin V. Ergil

| | |
|--|----|
| Introduction | 54 |
| Yin and Yang | 56 |
| The Five Phases | 60 |
| Qi , Blood, Fluids, Essence, and Spirit | 64 |
| The Channels | 70 |
| Viscera and Bowels | 72 |
| The Three Causes of Disease | 88 |
| The Healthy Body as an Orderly Landscape | 94 |

3 Diagnosis in Chinese Medicine

Kevin V. Ergil

| | |
|---|-----|
| Signs of a Disrupted Landscape | 98 |
| Collecting and Organizing Information | 100 |
| The Four Examinations | 100 |
| Pattern Diagnosis | 122 |
| Patterns and Diseases: Understanding and Integrating TCM Pattern Diagnosis | 146 |
| Principles and Methods of Treatment | 148 |
| Case Study John | 150 |
| Case Study Alice | 152 |
| Case Study Jeremy | 154 |

4 Acupuncture

Marnae C. Ergil

| | |
|--------------------------------------|-----|
| Introduction | 158 |
| Channel and Network Theory | 164 |
| Point Selection Strategies | 186 |
| Acupuncture Microsystems | 194 |
| Case Study John | 198 |
| Case Study Alice | 200 |
| Case Study Jeremy | 202 |

5 Tui Na

Michael McCarthy and Kevin V. Ergil

| | |
|--|-----|
| Introduction | 206 |
| Physical Preparation of the Practitioner | 208 |
| Therapeutic Techniques | 210 |
| Clinical Applications of Tui Na | 214 |
| Topical Preparations | 218 |

6 Traditional Chinese Pharmacotherapy

Simon Becker

| | |
|--------------------------------------|-----|
| Historical Overview | 222 |
| Pharmacopoeias | 228 |
| Medicinal Substances | 230 |
| Medicinal Properties | 232 |
| Processing of Medicinals | 236 |
| Medicinal Categories | 238 |
| Chinese Medicinal Formulas | 260 |
| Formula Structure | 262 |

| | | | |
|---|-----|---|-----|
| Forms of Formula Administration | 264 | Movement Principles and Body Mechanics | 354 |
| Medicinal Formula Categories | 266 | Landmarks of Tai Ji Quan Literature | 356 |
| The Safety of Chinese Medicinals | 294 | Tai Ji Quan and Traditional Chinese Medicine | 356 |
| 7 Chinese Dietetics | | Self-defense, Competition, and Weapons | 360 |
| Mary Garvey | | Representative Postures | 362 |
| Introduction | 300 | Tai Ji Quan and Western Medicine | 364 |
| The Middle Burner (Zhong Jiao) | 302 | 10 Acupuncture Research: An Overview | |
| Diet and Disorder | 304 | Stephen Birch | |
| Dietary Advice | 310 | Types of Research | 368 |
| 8 Qi Gong | | Challenges Facing Acupuncture Research | 374 |
| Anne Reinard and Yves Réquena | | Areas for Future Research | 375 |
| Historical Origins | 320 | Finding and Reading Publications on Acu- puncture Research | 376 |
| Principles | 324 | References | 379 |
| Qi Gong Practice | 334 | Further Reading | 385 |
| 9 Tai Ji Quan | | Photos and Illustrations | 390 |
| Douglas Wile | | Index | 391 |
| Introduction | 346 | | |
| Origins and Evolution | 348 | | |
| Chronology and Characteristics of Styles | 352 | | |